

A close-up photograph showing a hand from the top left tying a Rakhi onto the wrist of another person's hand, which is held flat from the bottom right. The Rakhi is a traditional Indian festival decoration, featuring a central yellow circular base with a small brown and white Ganesha figurine in the center. The base is surrounded by a ring of pink and white synthetic fibers. The string is red with small gold and red beads. The background is a solid dark blue color.
